REMARKS.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the University should not be under fifteen years of age. None under that age will be admitted, except by a special arrangement with the Faculty.

Satisfactory testimonials of good moral character must be given when required; and students coming from another college will be required to present a certificate of honorable dismissal.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

Ladies from abroad will room in Saum Hall, which is under the immediate supervision of the Principal of the Ladies' Department; except in special cases of those who have friends residing in town, or those who desire the privilege of defraying part of their expenses by domestic labor.

Ladies desiring admission to the Ladies' Hall should have previous correspondence with the Principal of the department, stating their age, acquirements, and length of time they propose to remain.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Prayers, with reading of the Scriptures, are held in the chapel at 7:45 A. M., each day of the week, except Sabbath. All students are required to attend.

Religious services are held in the chapel on Sabbath morning, which all students are required to attend, except those who, on account of church membership, or wish of parent or guardian, prefer to attend church elsewhere.

Students' prayer-meetings, which all are invited to attend, are held every Tuesday evening, in the University halls.

EXAMINATIONS.

Public examinations of all the classes are held at the close of each term in the studies of the term.

These examinations are considered important, and the examiners will consider them criteria of the students' attainments.

Students who, for any reason, are absent from an examination, will be required to pass a full and satisfactory examination before they re-enter the class.

SPECIAL STUDIES.

Instruction is given at the expense of the student, in the modern languages, instrumental and vocal music, drawing, and oil painting.

GOVERNMENT.

Daily and weekly accounts of the attainments and delinquencies of each student are kept, furnishing a complete record of his habits, in respect to scholarship, obedience to rules, and general punctuality.

This record is publicly read at the close of each term, and is preserved in the archives of the institution. A copy is transmitted to the parent or guardian, when requested.

LIBRARY.

A number of valuable books have been procured to replace the library destroyed by fire. Additions are being made.

APPARATUS.

The University is provided with philosophical and chemical apparatus for experimental illustration of the different departments of science. Contributions to the cabinet are earnestly solicited from friends in different parts of the country.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are connected with the University four literary societies—the Philomathean and Philophronean, belonging to the gentlemen; Philalethean and Cleiorhetean, belonging to the ladies. These societies occupy commodious halls in the new University building.

MISCELLANY.

Students will be under the direction of the Faculty in engaging rooms and boarding.

Some young men rent rooms and board in clubs at a moderate cost, and a few defray all expenses by manual labor.

Students engaging rooms in the University buildings retain their right to them only so long as they are students.

Students, before joining their classes, must be provided with certificates from the treasurer, showing that they have settled their term bills.

The proper text-books are furnished in Westerville.

FREE TUITION.

Children of superannuated and itinerant ministers of the conferences co-operating with the University are received free of charge as to tuition.

To Our Friends.

With the termination of this session we close the twenty-eighth year of this university. We are grateful to Almighty God for the health granted to teachers and students; for the peace that has prevailed within our borders; for the continued confidence manifested toward us, as evinced in the contributions of the year. Notwithstanding the unsettled condition of business our agents have been kindly received.

During the year $8,000 have been added to our permanent endowment fund, and $30,000 in notes and bequests for the payment of debt and other contingent expenses. We ask for the continued prayers, contributions, counsel, and hearty co-operation of all our old friends, as well as the new ones which we trust we are yearly adding to the number, in our efforts to enlarge the work done, to make its teaching more thorough, and to deepen and widen its influence.

AID TO NEEDY STUDENTS.

One of the wants of the institution to which we have not specially called attention hitherto is a fund for the aid of needy students, especially those preparing for the ministry. For lack of funds some of our best students are compelled to leave college before they have completed a course of study. Others are tempted to overwork themselves in order to shorten the time required. Some remain out for a time and teach, or do other work, in order to secure the necessary funds. If the ministry promised as lucrative a support as do the other professions they could venture to involve themselves, with the hope of a speedy income after graduation. As it does not do this all necessary aid should be furnished them, so that their preparation will not be stinted and their future usefulness crippled.

Some of our patrons are providing in their wills for scholarships, the income from which shall constantly keep one pupil in college. There may be others who will endow a permanent scholarship by paying $1,000, the income from which, under the direction of the faculty, shall be granted to some worthy student who is in need of help. In addition to these there may be others who for a specified period of time will pay $100 a year for the same purpose. In the case of many a young man a little help of this kind in the hour of need will determine his destiny.

THE LIBRARY.

The librarian has been seeking during the year to add to the University Library such an amount of valuable books as shall make a respectable centenary offering. For this end he has been soliciting aid, chiefly from the alumni. Thus far he has met with a favorable response. The hearty co-operation of all the graduates is earnestly requested for this branch of our work.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.

Our Scientific Department needs enlargement to meet the demands of the times. Additional and improved apparatus are in great demand. Our cabinet is far from complete. A few thousand dollars could be spent to very great profit in the improvement of this department of college work. Have we not some scientific graduates or other friends of science who can aid us materially in supplying these wants?

CENTENNIAL PROFESSORSHIP.

This church has always been an antislavery church. When it cost a struggle to contend for a principle, we were honest and true to our convictions of duty. When an effort was made by those in sympathy with slavery to overthrow the government, no church was more ready than this to give its sympathy and support to the national authorities in their arduous work. Whatever could be done by our press and our ministry to inspire and cherish the patriotism of our people was done. This institution freely gave her sons to the conflict. To this end had they been instructed. On the perpetuity of this government, on the great moral issues of the day, they could occupy no neutral ground. Many of them proved their faithfulness by the sacrifice of their lives. In the cemeteries of the land, and on the plains of more than one southern battle-field their remains are sleeping, and will sleep until the trumpet shall summon them to judgment.

Other colleges have commemorated the deeds of their honored dead by memorial halls or monumental marble. We have not recorded the names of our sons upon sculptured stone, nor embalmed them in poetic verse, but in memory's store they have had a place, and their heroic sacrifices have not been forgotten.

During the coming year this nation celebrates its one hundredth anniversary. As a fitting tribute to the occasion some of our sister churches are asking their membership to munificently endow their colleges, so that these conservators of the nation's virtue and the nation's honor may start out upon the new century with increased means of usefulness.

Is it not feasible, and ought we not during this centennial year endow a "Centennial Professorship" as our tribute, and in this way embalm in everlasting remembrance those of our number who suffered and died that this nation might celebrate its anniversary, not a broken and shattered nation, but as one people. Are there not fathers and mothers who would contribute to such a chair in honor of their heroic dead? Are there not others who have money for such a purpose? In what better way could we show our love for our country and our appreciation of the work that our own sons have done?

STUDENTS.

While needing these various helps to which attention has been called, as well as others that might be named, these, after all, are but helps. As compared with other institutions we have our share of students, but for the sake of the church we represent, and for the well-being of the young people themselves, we should have five hundred students. The membership patronizing us and the conferences co-operating would justify us in expecting that number. Beset as are the youth of the land with educational shams and hot-house systems of so-called culture; with propositions from various sources to make them skilled in the classics in six months, or prepare them for the secretaryship of the treasury in as many weeks, they often know not what to do, and need the advice of some judicious friend who will seek to put their feet into proper paths. A word which parents and pastors should give would be the turning-point in many a young man's life. Others tempted by the glitter of the almighty dollar can not, in their haste to get rich, take the time demanded for a college course. A little effort on the part of those competent to instruct will show them that with respect to success and failure in this life, the odds are overwhelmingly in favor of the college graduate. Pres. Hays, of Washington, Pennsylvania, in an examination of the statistics upon this subject comes to the following conclusion:

"A college education is not indispensable to success, but it brings success soonest and surest. Though the college men are less than one hundreth of the whole they secure two thirds of the good places. To put it a little clearer, if among a hundred thousand men a hundred good places are to be distributed, there will sixty-six of them go to the thousand college men in the hundred thousand, while for the other ninety-nine thousand there will be only thirty-four places. In one case your chances are one in fifteen (15), while in the other they are but one in three thousand (3,000)."
